Holdrite Corporation, headquartered in San Diego, California, has established a reputation as a leading manufacturer known for innovative products and services in such categories as pipe and equipment support systems, acoustical plumbing solutions, water heater accessories, and water and firestop sleeving systems. Since introducing the 101-18 copper bonded pipe bracket over 30 years ago, HoldRite has converted makeshift methods into engineered solutions. Its products have expanded from traditional HoldRite pipe brackets to PEX stub-out and stub-up pipe supports, acoustic isolation, no-hub fitting restraints, and more. Hundreds of millions of HOLDRITE® products have been installed in various projects, from single-family and multi-family housing to hotel, government, military, healthcare, institutional, and many other market sectors.
