National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), headquartered in Washington, D.C., is a trade association that helps promote the policies that make housing a national priority. NAHB strives to protect the American Dream of housing opportunities for all while working to achieve professional success for its members who build communities, create jobs, and strengthen our economy. NAHB and its members take an active role in improving communities everywhere. Since 1942, NAHB has served its members, the housing industry, and the public. The home building industry offers more than just another job — you can find a rewarding career and earn an excellent salary. And you don't need to follow the traditional college path to get there, which means no student loan debt! Learn more about careers in the skilled trades.
