American Equipment Company, Inc. (AMECO), headquartered in Greenville, South Carolina, is a leading full-service equipment supplier, providing services to construction, mining, government, and industrial markets worldwide. AMECO rents and sells heavy equipment, tools, and vehicles worldwide. AMECO provides a full array of construction equipment, tools, and fleet management services globally, focused on reducing its customers' total costs within these industries. By implementing telematics on equipment assets, AMECO can track leading safety indicators and the utilization of vehicles and heavy equipment. Telematics, a term used to describe the combination of telecommunications and informatics, is a growing trend in the equipment industry. Telematics units monitor and track essential utilization and safety information for vehicles and heavy equipment units through cellular and GPS signals. AMECO is a registered service mark of American Equipment Company, Inc.
